

Notes kinda in order.

COLD OPEN

Cold open follows Dolores up to the gate which is the Detroit Centralized Zombie Control. The signs says “Detroit Centre...” Then Detroit, MI, then ROCK CITY ZOMBIES scrawled at the bottom. Subtitle reads “Detroit, Michigan”

Arial shot of as her car moves through hundreds of acres of zombies in coral and pens, being shuffled about by military. they occasionally resist and parties on either side are killed or consumed. They do not have this under control yet. It feels like it all going to explode.

Cut to the underground layer and begin the scene w/ Dolores and General Wad. Important, the zombie dances to the narcocorredo

TITLES

ACT ONE

EXT. NIGHT HOLLYWOOD HILLS

Over titles we see two car chases begin . One is a limo racing through the Hollywood hills being chased by fans and rolling over a stray zombie or two. This is “Metallica”. Inside the limo there is a figure in the corner not saying much. The band watches their phones for reports on their show starting in 30 minutes and how they are the future of rock and “nobody on the planet hasn’t heard of this band by now”

The shadowy figure in the corner is lauded as the “best agent in the whole fucking world and you made us!”

INTERCUT

EXT. NIGHT SAN FERNANDO VALLEY (SIMULTANEOUS) The second chase is more complicated. It starts with a shitty BAND van racing through the streets. Much less zombie control over here. They are trying to reach ZERO, the singer (our main hero) but she won’t pick up. They leave message about they are going to miss the show and all that. The van is full of cheap, broken music gear.

As they race down the street, much nicer flatbed truck creeps into view, then takes pursuit of the van when they see it go by. These are the rival hair metal band (Nelson). In the back of the flatbed they have chained several zombies to the truck. Once the van sees them in the rear view, the chase begins.

INERCUT

INT. ZERO's HOUSE, she's belting out a metal tune.

Anyway, her band arrives, she jumps in, they get chased by NELSON who try to throw zombies on them. We hear complaints about driving a thousand miles to see this show and she's going to make them miss it. NELSON ends up rolling and getting eaten by zombies.

Converge outside the KIA center where the band pours out to adoring fans. ZERO and her band are in line. We zoom deep inside the limo where JACK BLACK (had a name for him) is staring, stunned at his phone. We here the same

V.O. Nobody Knows. That's why we called you.

He goes pale

V.O. You are the King of Metal.

As he gets out of the limo, he runs into his boss (our villain) LARS (oh, maybe not). JACK is surprised to see him there. JACK goes to bring up the call from the ARMY. LARS explains that with METALLICA's success they are too big for JACK to manage and he's taking over their management immediately. JACK can't write a deal to save his life and they lost millions on ancillary rights, so JACK is out. The band hears this and is thrilled. During this, LARS is getting a repeated UNKNOWN NUMBER calls from Detroit. JACK sees this and is threatened. He texts a number "LARS wants me to handle this, stop calling, okay?"

Everyone goes inside, include ZERO who recognizes JACK and tries to wave, but gets no response. JACK is left alone on Hollywood Blvd, surrounded by zombies.

JACK hastily signs a deal with the Army to investigate. He is convinced that metal kills zombies. He visits Detroit and they want to do an experiment. The only zombies they have available for testing are from a remote island in Indonesia.

We get some interstitials of the BAND going back to Peoria or whatever.

We somehow avoid naming actual Metallica, and their heads explode. Remember, it must be new to them, zombies are numb to stuff they already know.

With this success, JACK decides to go national. This gets back to LARS who puts the kibosh on it. LARS represents Metallica and, now that he has the ultimate weapon, he's going to charge the US Army a bazillion dollars for the test. They can do this because JACK signed a shitty deal that actually broke in LARS's favor and he gets a moment of grace. But, also, he's made it possible for capitalism to kill the world.

They spend the rest of ACT ONE fighting over this until the day arrives, and the ARMY can only afford to play the first 15 seconds or so over national airwaves.

It doesn't work, no zombie deaths reported, but we get an incidental report of zombie deaths in some small town (this is ZERO back at her home town)

Someone makes the connection that the music has to be fresh to truly blow your mind.

BREAK TWO

ACT TWO

Jack is crushed, has lost his job and is relying on his bro network to follow events. He sets out across America to find "real metal" and wanders a zombie infested country risking his life to see local bands. He starts a social media campaign with very few followers. He gets one heart from ZERO word begins to get out that metal might save the world, but nobody is listening.

Interstitial LARS is making enormous amounts of cash selling shitty, knock off bands to WAD who has no taste. Montage of him reacting to various crappy bands and trying to be hip.

JACK finds Dolores' home, trying to identify the magic playlist. She and her phone have been eaten. ## MIDPOINT

Zombies break out of the containment center in Detroit. This is JACK's fault. After the failed experiment the whole thing is getting defunded and the gates are basically left open. A few bands head that way, hoping to save the world. JACK doesn't know this.

JACK spends the bottom of ACT II trying to get everyone to run and hide, he has given up on music.

Indie bands race across the US. Their only weapon is the might of their rock. JACK is depressed that he has been listening to the same shit for decades, forgetting the real metal comes from a shitty amp in a garage. ## BREAK THREE Jack logs back into social media and see hundreds of bands heading to Detroit. They believe in the power of metal.

ACT THREE

BAND has a loose affiliation with a Narco Corridos band that holds off some zombies. They are feeling like the heroes right now.

JACK figures out a way to get the Army to do one last try and broadcast a live concert to see what works. The winner gets to save the world live on the internet.

Getting close to the radio station, it turns into Rollerball / The Warriors, the bands are trying to wipe each other out. At first BAND goes unnoticed but the other bands start hearing them and variously think “oh fuck, we have to kill them” or “oh fuck, they are going to save the world, we need to wing man for them.” The true metalheads take the latter route.

The Army has lost control of basically all of Michigan, so they have to fight each other and zombies to even make it to the station. LARS of course is there ready to sign the deal with the winner.

During the climax, our Narco Corridos desperately grab a dead bands gear and play some metaled-out ballads, a few zombies die before they are eaten.

Anyway, our heroes have to go up against, I guess NELSON. During the NELSON set the zombies have taken the arena and everyone is dying. They are about to abandon the stage when ZERO’s void breaks through the crowd and all the good feels happen.

After that, LARS gets rebuked and eaten.

JACK waives his fees.

BAND is the most famous band in the world.

And now effectively useless against zombies. Metal must evolve. Metal is now. Post-credit for DEAD in SINGAPORE?